

TRAPPING MATTERS WORKSHOP

WHEN

February 7, 2017
10am-5pm

WHERE

North Dakota Game & Fish
Auditorium

100 North Bismarck Expressway, Bismarck ND 58501

Many wildlife professionals shy away from trapping-related discussions, because it is considered a controversial wildlife management technique. Yet, it is essential that wildlife professionals understand the diverse ways that regulated trapping provides environmental and social benefits. This workshop will help participants understand and better communicate the benefits of regulated trapping to wildlife management. Participants will leave with scientifically sound information and be trained in skills that will make them effective communicators on the subject.

REGISTER ONLINE

<https://northdakotachapterofthewildlifesociety.wildapricot.org/Upcoming-Events>

COST

General = $30

Students = $10

Lunch included for both

QUESTIONS

701-220-1871

satucker@nd.gov

SPONSORS

