

P.O. Box 1442, Bismarck, N.D. 58502

P.O. Box 1091, Bismarck, N. D. 58502

Current topics and issues affecting outdoor recreation in our State. Prepared by the North Dakota Chapter, The Wildlife Society, and the North Dakota Wildlife Federation.

Conservation Notes #29, August 2018

Where Do You Get Information on Fish and Wildlife Issues?

When you need accurate technical information or advice, you go to a specialist. Might be your doctor, or lawyer, or an electrician, or plumber. You need and want someone who has education or technical training in the topic of interest. Information based on technical expertise provides accurate, objective assistance to help you determine what you need to know.

When it comes to fish and wildlife conservation issues, people often resort to their own experience, tradition, or rumor. Or people rely on what's discussed at the barber shop or coffee shop from unnamed experts commonly referred to as "they say".

But, North Dakota has a highly trained, professional Game and Fish Department that will give you science-based information on a wide variety of fish and wildlife issues. They are the specialists.

So, when you have a question or problem about fish and wildlife resources and you need sound advice to make an effective decision, contact the experts at North Dakota Game and Fish Department.

For more information on this message or other conservation topics, contact: Mike McEnroe, Past President, North Dakota Wildlife Federation, (memcenroe@midco.net) or Rick Nelson, Past President, North Dakota Chapter, The Wildlife Society, (bluebill@bis.midco.net). For a complete list of Conservation Notes visit (www.ndctws.wordpress.com)

